

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An image extraction method picks up an image of an object positioned in front of a background using wavelengths in a visible light region, picks up an image of the object positioned in front of the background using wavelengths in an infrared region, and extracts only the object based on the picked up images. At least a surface of the background is formed by an organic dye.

10

15

20

25

30

35